

WISCONSIN INDIANHEAD TECHNICAL COLLEGE
HEALTH INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY
STUDENT HANDBOOK

FAILING GRADES

Any of the following may result in a failing grade in an HIT program course:

1. Failure to attain at least a grade of "C" in the course
2. Failure to meet professional practice experience expectations/policies
3. Dismissal from a professional practice experience site
4. Failure to complete all course requirements
5. Academic dishonesty

HIT students are required to obtain a grade of "C" or better in all HIT program courses, including science, general studies, and elective courses required. All required coursework from each semester, including semester-required science and general studies courses, must be successfully completed (grade of "C" or higher) before the student may take coursework from subsequent semesters.